City Ordered To Show Cause Why Permanent
Injunction Should Not Be Granted.

Appeal to Fulton county courts to force the city to erect the new $1,000,000 municipal building on a site adjacent to Fulton county courthouse Thursday failed to prevent prosecution of plans to construct the new building on a tract known as the old high school property at Mitchell and Washington streets.

Cecil G. Allen, former member of city council from the second ward who was defeated for alderman in 1926, Thursday sought a temporary restraining order to prevent the city from building the new structure on any site other than the courthouse site. The papers were filed in Judge John D. Humphries' division of Fulton superior court. The restraining order was not signed, but the city was ordered to show cause why a permanent injunction, prayed by the petitioner, should not be granted. Hearing was set for September 10.

The attempt to force council to comply with an alleged agreement to locate the building adjacent to the courthouse was branded as unavailing and without legal standing Thursday, by city officials, who held that council, under the law, can place the building on a tract it sees fit.

In line with this theory, plans were pushed to consummate purchase of the seven additional strips of land needed to provide an adequate city hall tract and which was authorized Wednesday at a special meeting of city council. Mayor I. N. Ragsdale gave his approval to the papers and details incident to the transfer of titles were being worked out.

All owners of the property in question were notified that the city has exercised the option which was made, has expired Thursday, and asked to take steps to complete the transfer of deeds.

Even if the Allen suit were successful, the city would not have to replace approximately $182,000 it is to expend for land in an effort to locate the city hall on the Girls' High school site, City Attorney James L. Mayson ruled.

Thursday was the date set for the taking up of options on the Mitchell-Washington avenue site by the city, but Judge Humphries' order does not interfere with this.

Based on evolution.
In his petition Allen set forth that a resolution introduced by himself as councilman on February 15, 1926, selected the property in the rear of the courthouse as the site for the new city hall in the event bonds were voted for the purpose by the people of Atlanta. This property is located east of the courthouse and is bounded by East Hunter street, Central avenue, the courthouse and property to the south of the south line of the

DEFENDS WIDOW

Mrs. Ellis Takes Stand
To Testify in Behalf of Woman Accused of Slaying Husband.

Greenville, S. C., September 1.—(AP) A country school teacher today faced the ordeal of the witness stand to proclaim her faith in the innocence of the woman who is charged with the murder of her brother.

Apparently filled with dread but at the same time determined, Mrs. Grace Willis Ellis testified she believed in the innocence of Mrs. Ethel Willis, who, with Henry S. Townsend, is being tried for the slaying of Sheriff Sam D. Willis, because she knew purity and love and "because I know Ethel Willis."

The middle-aged country school teacher was one of eleven witnesses called to the stand by defense attorneys in their systematic campaign to tear down, bit by bit, the structure of circumstantial evidence built by state's witnesses.

Experts Are Called.
A large part of the afternoon session was consumed by expert testimony of three physicians who swore that in their opinion Henry Townsend could not have run from the Willis' home, after the sheriff was shot down at his garage on June 12, to his own residence more than a mile away, he had just been discharged from the preceding day from a hospital, where he had undergone a minor operation, which was described as painful.

Quincy Sullivan, nearly-dressed negro porter of a local drug store, was the last witness of the day, testifying to having delivered some medical supplies to the Townsend home between 10:30 o'clock and 11 o'clock on the Saturday night immediately preceding the shooting. Evidence that Townsend had telephoned from his home for the articles between 10 and 10:30 o'clock was given by Dr. L. L. Bates, a pharmacist at the store.

Mrs. Ellis Called.
The defense called upon Mrs. Ellis to refer to the testimony of state's witnesses that Townsend, deputy sheriff at the time and described as the best friend of the slain officer, was at the Willis' home constantly after the slaying and too attentive to the widow.

Townsend was asked to state and protect Mrs. Willis, the late sheriff's sister, because, she said, Deputy Ben Paris had called upon her to watch Mrs. Willis and report all her actions to officers immediately upon her arrival at the scene about five hours after the slaying.

From her testimony, defense counsel sought to strengthen their charge that the investigation in the slaying had not been made in a fair and unbiased manner but had been undertaken with a preconceived belief in the guilt of the two defendants.

Allegations of state's witnesses that Mrs. Willis was apparently callous and indifferent were denied by Arthur Mackey, undertaker, who prepared the body for burial.

On one occasion, Mackey said he saw her prostrate over the casket, carressing the body. He quoted her as saying: "The dirty curs—darling."

Whereabouts of Daring Brunswick Airman Is Unsolved Mystery, Rio
Officials Say.

Brunswick, Ga., September 1.—(AP) The seventh day and night since Paul Redfern took off here on his projected nonstop flight to Brazil has passed with nothing except indefinite reports to fan the hopes of his relatives and friends that the young flier has not met disaster. The keenest disappointment came today with official denial of a report from Para, Brazil, that Redfern's monoplane had fallen in the vicinity of Alenquer, on the Amazon river, but this report had been shadowed with the fear that the aviator had met injury.

While executives of South American states ordered expeditions prepared to search for the monoplane, one other report pierced the virtual wall of silence which descended over Redfern after he took off here last Thursday to make his perilous attempt. This came from Miami, Fla., where H. K. Smith, of Smith, Parks & Smith, Miami and Nassau shipping agents, on his return from a cruise through the Bahamas reported that natives of two Bahaman villages heard an airplane which they supposed was the Port of Brunswick.

Meanwhile the Venezuelan government was investigating the report that a mail man and natives had observed an airplane flying southeasterly over the delta of the Orinoco river last Saturday afternoon. The governor of British Guiana issued instructions to police and to the population to look out for the airman and render assistance should he be located on the colony's soil.

To Cruise River.
At Para, Brazil, the governor of the state authorized the equipment of boats to cruise the river Igarapa and approved the organization of expeditions to search the interior. Upon receipt of advice that the Alenquer report was groundless he ordered the search to proceed.

Although the Alenquer rumor was created as an unverified report, it created intense excitement in the city today. Business virtually was suspended as crowds gathered in front of the office of the Brunswick News.

President of Mexico Says
Country Desires Friend-

All Nations.

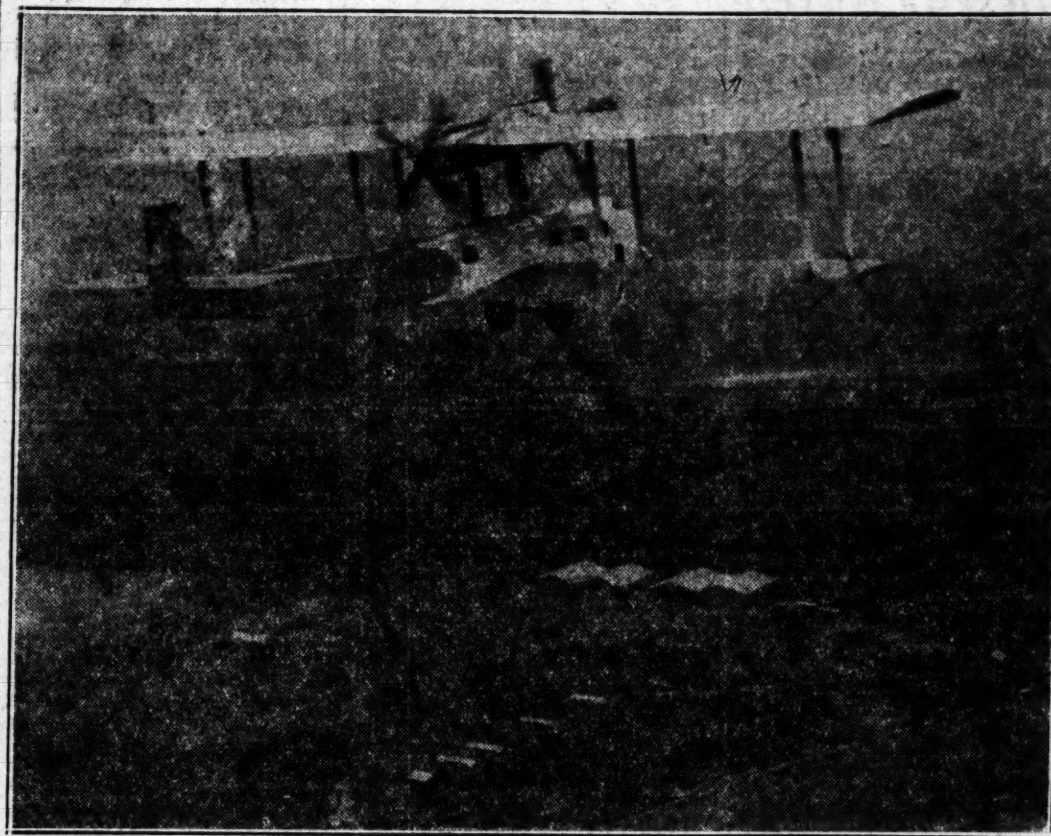

Mexico City, September 1.—(AP) Particular attention to relations between the United States and Mexico was paid by President Calles in his annual message read personally at the opening session of congress to night.

These, he said, were marked by some disagreement, principally over the land and petroleum laws, but he expressed the hope that such differences would be settled amicably, because Mexico was willing to listen in a spirit of justice and equity to any concrete cases which might be presented.

Meets Obligations.
The president pointed out that, despite bad business conditions and decreased government revenues, the government had faithfully met its foreign debt obligations, and he added: "The government proposes to attend strictly in the future to the foreign debt service as long as the economic capacity of the republic permits."

Local Pastors Differ
On Evolution Theory

Five Atlanta pastors gave widely divergent opinions when questioned Thursday as to their reactions to the speech by Sir Arthur Keith before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, meeting in Leeds, England, in which he supported the Darwinian theory. Sir Arthur's speech, as reported in The Constitution of Thursday morning, was the basis on which the clergymen were interrogated.

Darwin may be right, but Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church of Atlanta, would rather believe that lots of men are going back toward the anthropoid ape than descending from the creature.

And Dr. Daniel has a number of contemporaries among the clergy in this city who believe much as he does. Dr. L. O. Bricker, pastor of the Peachtree Christian church, Thursday night said that he can see no objection to the Darwinian theory, but cannot see the necessity for it. Dr. Bricker looks at the question from a scientific angle, as he has given much time to scientific study.

Dr. C. B. Wilmer, pastor-emeritus of St. Luke's Episcopal church, feels that philosophy and theology are not in the scientist's sphere, and accepts the facts in nature as God's workings. The Rev. J. S. Strickland, pastor of the Payne Memorial Methodist church, stands flat-footed on the story in Genesis as the origin of man, but says that it may well be that the six days in which the Bible says the world was created may have been created in thousands of years, rather than days of 24 hours each, as we now count time.

The value of ministerial opinion on the scientific findings of Sir Arthur Keith are questioned by Dr. Luther Rice Christie, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church. Dr. Christie frankly confesses that he knows nothing of science and, generally speaking, feels that ministers should stick to their pulpit and leave the field of scientific research to scientists. "Dr. Daniel doesn't believe man came from an ape. 'It would be easier to believe that lots of men are going back toward apes, rather than coming forward,' he said.

CARROLL PAROLE
PLEA EXPECTED

Producer Must File Plea
at Board Meeting Monday or Wait Until January Session.

Unless Earl Carroll, theatrical producer serving a year and a day term at the Atlanta federal penitentiary for perjury, files a petition for parole at the meeting of the parole board slated to begin Monday, he probably will be forced to await the next session, January 1, 1928.

Carroll becomes eligible for parole October 8, according to records of the prison, and it is customary for prisoners to file at the session preceding the earliest possible date on which they could be paroled. To date the host at the famous bath-tub party has not petitioned the board, according to records. If he fails to do so, the only method of escaping, serving until January 1 or possibly longer would be a special meeting of the parole board to consider his case. Special meetings of the board are hard to arrange, it is said, and he probably would have slight chance of getting one.

Carroll is eligible for parole under customary proceedings of prison routine, despite news reports from Washington, which pointed out that he could not be considered at this meeting of that body because the parole could not be granted until October 8. The custom is to grant the parole effective at the time the applicant would be eligible to parole, and it is regarded as highly possible that Carroll will not pass up the opportunity to seek executive clemency.

In addition to being eligible for consideration at the next session of board, Carroll also will stay in the United States, M. A. Coykendall, immigration inspector, said Thursday.

"This agitation about deportation is a summer nightmare," Mr. Coykendall said. "Carroll says he is a native of this country, and there is no reason to doubt it. We asked him the questions concerning his nationality just as we do every other prisoner."

WASHINGTON DENIES CARROLL CAN FILE.
Washington, September 1.—(AP) The granting of a parole to Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, who is serving a sentence of a year and a day for perjury, will not come before the parole board when it meets in Atlanta next Tuesday or Wednesday, the department of justice announced today.

James Carroll, brother of the producer, has conferred with officials of the department to determine whether several weeks spent by his brother at Greenville, S. C., when he was taken ill en route to the penitentiary, could be applied to the period already served. If this were done, Carroll would be eligible for parole early this morning. A negative answer was given by the justice department.

Carroll entered the prison June 8 after one-third of his sentence had expired.

ROYAL WINDSOR
DOWN IN QUEBEC

Fog Delays Ship at St.
Johns—Planes To Resume Flight Today.

Disaster greeted two daring attempts begun Thursday to fly from Canada to points in England, and another day passed without bringing word of the Saint Raphael and her crew of three, including the 63-year-old Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim.

The Sir John Carling, making a one-stop flight from London, Ontario, to London, England, left on its trip shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday morning, but became lost in a fog and was forced down about 6 o'clock at night six miles from Caribou, Maine. The two fliers, Captain Terry Tully and Lieutenant Medcalf expect to resume their trip this morning.

The monoplane, the Royal Windsor, with its crew of Clarence Schiller and Phil Wood, met with hard luck while over St. Johns, Quebec, when a wing caught fire. The plane was forced to land and expects to take off again this morning from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. The Royal Windsor was flying from Windsor, Canada, to Windsor, England. It took off about three hours after the start of the Sir John Carling.

The St. Raphael, bound from Upavon, England, to Ottawa, Canada, is now many hours overdue and is believed to have been forced down in the Atlantic. The plane is manned by Colonel Minechin and Captain Hamilton.

No word yet has been received from Paul Redfern and his plane. Latest reports are that searching parties are looking for him in South American territories over which he may have passed en route to Brazil. A report that he had fallen in the vicinity of Alenquer, on the Amazon river, proved groundless.

WINDSOR IS FORCED BY FOG TO LAND
Windsor, Ont., September 1.—(AP) The monoplane Royal Windsor was forced down at St. Johns, Quebec, at 8 o'clock tonight, according to a long-distance telephone call to members of the flight committee. Both C. A. ("Duke") Schiller, pilot of the plane which started off on a non-stop flight from here to Windsor, England, and his navigator, Phil Wood, talked on the telephone.

Because of a faulty telephone connection it was at first thought that they were forced down because a wing of their plane took fire. The fliers said that they had had splendid flying weather right up to the time they

THIRD-YEAR SUM PAID BY GERMANY
Berlin, September 1.—(AP) With the payment today of $5,000,000 gold marks, Germany completed the money reparation annuity of 1,500,000,000 marks provided for the third year under the Dawes plan, it is stated in a communique issued by St. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations payments.

"Germany thus fully and punctually has made all the payments falling due during the third year of the plan," the communique says. "Her total payments to creditor powers for the three years during which the plan now has been operating totals 3,720,000,000 marks. Her assessment for the 12 months beginning September 1, 1927, is 1,750,000,000 marks, with which the trial period of four years designated in the plan, as precedent to the first standard annuity of 2,500,000,000 marks, effective September 1, 1928, will have been completed."

During the year completed today, Germany received credit for deliveries in kind valued at 617,000,000 marks. The cost to her of maintaining the Rhineland occupation forces for the past year amounted to 74,000,000 marks.

FLIERS NERVOUS

Givon Inquires Over Fate of English Fliers Before Leaving.

Le Bourget, France, September 2.—(Friday).—(United News).—Leon Givon and Pierre Corbu took off for New York at 1:30 o'clock, eastern daylight time, this morning in their Farman Bluebird biplane.

The plane is due at New York around 8 p. m. eastern daylight time, Saturday, if favorable conditions are encountered, although the fliers are allowing for conditions that would land them there as late as early Sunday morning.

The distance is roughly 3,600 miles—a retracement of Lindbergh's course to Paris last May.

Complete Fueling.
At 5:30 seventeen mechanics, perched on the plane's massive wings, completed the filling of the Bluebird's gasoline tanks that hold 7 1/2 tons of fuel.

Several huge gasoline tank trucks rumbled away, the night of preparation for the Bluebird's venture having ended.

While the fueling was being finished, Givon was in an affectionate farewell conversation with his wife, that was ended by a last embrace.

"Corbu, who had been sleeping in a nearby hangar, was awakened, and joined his wife.

A guard of infantrymen, with bayonets fixed in their long service rifles, moved quickly to surround the plane as preparations for the hop-off were completed.

A bare 200 or so newspapermen, photographers and ordinary spectators were on hand to represent the general public.

Has Two Motors.
The Farman Bluebird is equipped with two 500-horsepower motors, placed one behind the other on the upper wing.

Either engine is capable of propelling the plane alone, so that failure of one would not necessarily entail disaster, its builders declare.

An innovation in the plane so far as is known here, is an electric pumping apparatus to feed the engines from the gasoline tanks.

The plane's structure is a collapsible rubber boat-raft, air inflated, similar to that in which Commander Richard E. Byrd and his companions paddled shore after landing in the sea off Ver-Sur-Mer, France, July 1.

Undeterred by the fact that even then they knew the St. Raphael was overdue on its shorter flight from Upavon, England, and might be sinking, the aviators decided late last

AERIAL PASSENGER LINE IS OPENED

Chicago, September 1.—(AP)—An epoch in transportation was recorded here today when the first air express and regular passenger service planes of the National Air Transport, Inc., soared away from the Maywood airport, carrying mail, express matter and passengers.

The first passenger and express plane left Chicago for Dallas at 8:50 a. m., central standard time, carrying two passengers, 20 shipments of express and eight pouches of mail.

At 8:25 a. m., the second air express plane took the air, this time for New York City, carrying 234 pounds of express and 532 pounds of mail.

Col. Paul Henderson, general manager of the National Air Transport, Inc., who had officially taken charge of the New York-Chicago airmail route at Cleveland, for his company, flew into Chicago on the first plane in that service, arriving shortly before the Dallas plane was scheduled to leave.

Tonight officials of the American Railway Express company and of the National Air Transport, Inc., celebrated with a dinner, going later to the Maywood field to witness arrival of the first express and mail plane from New York at 7 p. m. An hour after the first express plane departed for New York, another large shipment of express packages, the largest volume of the opening day here, went east.

Dr. W. A. Grouws, of Dallas, Texas, and L. G. Strength, of Chicago, were the first persons to pay their fares and ride as passengers in the Dallas-bound and mail plane from New York.

The fare from Chicago to Dallas is $100.30.

LOCKOUT IS SEEN SPREAD OF MOVIE

Greensboro, N. C., September 1.—(AP)—Three local theaters operated by the Public Sanger Theaters, Inc., of North Carolina, continued to operate as usual today despite the fact that picture machine operators and stage cities today reported threatened ruptures of relations between movie theater owners and their employees as stage hands and operators here agreed to stand together on their demands that have closed virtually all of the city's movie and vaudeville houses.

Operators at Minneapolis threatened to walk out unless they were granted increased wages; musicians at Richmond, Va., will not be in the orchestra next week because of rejected contract offers, a spokesman said, and a showdown is imminent between owners and employees at Los Angeles. Operators and musicians of these theaters and musicians of these theaters and musicians of these theaters have failed to effect new contracts.

The Chicago Federation of Labor and the Theater Janitors' union today extended their moral support to the stage hands, musicians and operators thrown out of work by the controversy which began as a strike and developed into a lockout.

THREE THEATERS STILL OPERATING.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Several other employees went out on strike this morning after failure to reach agreement with the management on a new wage scale.

H. F. Kinsey, general manager of the theaters, said that the employees had demanded a prohibitive advance in wages. His company, he said, had agreed to an advance but it appeared not enough to satisfy the employees.

Between Chicago's theater owners and the Motion Picture Operators' union which have kept practically all the city's 350 picture and vaudeville houses closed since Monday evening.

Both sides, although reiterating that they would not give any ground in the battle, announced through their official spokesmen that they had no objection to having their cases before the conciliators under certain conditions.

SMALL DIFFICULTY ANTICIPATED LOCALLY.

Although salary disagreements exist between the local motion picture operators' union and the managements of Atlanta theaters, no serious difficulties are anticipated by either the representative of the union nor the managers' committee, investigation Thursday night revealed.

Operators, in a request presented to the managers recently, are asking for an increase of $15 per week for the larger downtown houses and proportionately smaller increases for suburban theaters. The managers' committee, according to Newman L. Liggett, business agent for the operators' union, contracts expired on August 31, but all operators continued work under a "gentlemen's agreement" until the arrival of the Public Theaters union "contract" representative next week, who is expected to successfully arbitrate the difficulties.

The present scale of operators' salaries is $55 per week, and the request asks an increase to $70 per week in the theaters seating over 1,500; $60 per week in theaters seating between 500 and 1,500; and $45 per week in the houses of less than 500 seating capacity.

Three of the smaller theaters and one of the 1,500-class have already agreed to the proposed increase, Mr. Liggett stated. The local situation has no connection with those of Chicago and other cities where theaters have ceased operation as a result of disagreements between employees and the managements.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS TO MEET DURING SEPTEMBER

During September the Salvation Army field officers of the southern territory will meet in conference, under the direction of Commissioner W. A. McIntyre, at various centers.

Officers located in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia will meet at Richmond, Va., on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 7, 8 and 9. On September 10, 11 and 12 the officers of Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama will assemble at Memphis, Tenn. A week later a similar conference will be held at Savannah for the officers of Georgia, North and South Carolina and Florida. This series of special gatherings will be concluded by a Dallas conference, closing days of September, when the field officers of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas will meet in conference.

WOMAN SLATED TO BE ELECTED STATE SENATOR

Watkinsville, Ga., September 1.—(Special.) Voters of three counties, Oconee, Walton and Barrow will go to the polls Saturday, September 3 and elect the first woman ever to be named as a member of the state senate in Georgia.

In a special election called in the twenty-seventh district to fill the unexpired term of Senator L. F. Johnson, of Watkinsville, who died recently, his widow is the only candidate and she will have the honor of being the first woman in the state to be elected state senator.

Unless a special session is called, Mrs. Johnson will not have an opportunity to serve during a legislative session, but will serve as a senator in all other capacities until 1929.

The lower house has had two women members since women were given the right of suffrage in Georgia. Miss Bessie Kempton, of Walton, and Mrs. Viola Ross Napier, of Bibb.

The election will be held in all three of the counties in the twenty-seventh district Saturday.

Confession of Negro To Murder Reported

Greenville, S. C., September 1.—(AP)—A rumor that a negro man had admitted killing Sheriff Sam D. Willis for whose murder Mrs. Ethel Willis and Henry S. Townsend are now on trial, is being investigated. It was learned here tonight.

Walter S. Willis, brother of the slain officer, said he had spent all of the evening in checking up on information he had just obtained and hopes to be able to swear out a warrant tomorrow. The negro is reported to have made his confession to some negro women.

Solicitor J. G. Leatherwood, prosecuting the widow and Townsend, discounted the report when informed of it tonight.

we'll get them yet. They shot you down like a dog."

Maxey also swore that Cliff Bramlett, Willis' deputy and a prosecution witness, a few hours before Townsend was arrested, when asked of rumors involving the widow and her present husband, said in effect:

"It is the rottenest thing I ever heard of and there's not a word of truth in it. Bramlett denied from the stand that he had made the remark in the course of his examination earlier in the trial."

Mrs. Ellis denied having seen any improper conduct between the defendants after the tragedy, but when Judge Mendel L. Smith asked her on cross-examination if she could see nothing improper in a woman kissing a man married to her husband lay dead in the house, which state witnesses testified occurred, Mrs. Ellis admitted she would consider such action, if it occurred, improper.

As the attorney continued to shoot questions at the widow, she took refuge in the declaration: "Every thing is according to how it is done."

And she adhered to that statement.

Dr. J. W. S. Fowell and Dr. T. B. Reeves were the physicians who examined the body of the slain officer. A physical condition they did not think that he could run a mile or more the night of the tragedy.

COURT ACTION TO BAR GIRLS' HIGH SITE ASKED

courthouse property. Allen alleged that city council agreed that if bonds were sold for the erection of a new building on the above described land and that the resolution was approved by Mayor Walter A. Sims.

Allen further contends that the Board of Public Works and revenue offered to sell to the city the land east of the court house at cost price plus 7 per cent interest and that the city council agreed to accept the offer on a pro rata basis by a committee to be composed of one member each from the county commission, the city council and the real estate board.

The city accepted this offer on August 1, 1925, and the real estate board has been in possession of the land since that time.

As reasons for his action in seeking an injunction, Allen points out that the voters were induced to believe that the city hall would be erected immediately east of the courthouse, it being urged on the voters that great advantages would accrue from having the city hall and courthouse adjacent to each other, particularly in view of the proposed construction of the Central avenue and Pryor street viaducts.

Advantages to Tax Payers.

In one thing citizens could pay both city and county taxes, and the erection of the city hall just east of the courthouse would allow a simplification of titles to real estate. Allen sets forth. The county and city jails and the city police and fire departments would all be in one building, which would be especially advantageous in view of the future growth of the city to embrace all of Fulton county, a petition recites.

The people of Atlanta voted the bonds for a city hall to be built next to the courthouse, and he is informed that the county commission is ready and willing to convey the necessary county property to the city under identical terms of the original offer and acceptance, Allen sets out in his petition.

Now, Allen says, the city is threatening to erect the city hall on a wholly different and far less advantageous site, and has obtained options on approximately $150,000 of property. Allen charges that the erection of the city hall on the Mitchell-Washington avenue site would be a breach of faith with the voters and contrary to equity. He prays that the city be enjoined from building on premises other than those immediately east of the courthouse. The petition was filed for Allen by Attorneys R. A. Etheridge and J. K. Jordan.

CITY OFFICIALS BRAND ACTION AS GROUNDELESS.

City officials branded the action of Mr. Allen as groundless, and declared that the city will experience little trouble in sustaining the contention that the new city hall can be constructed at any place council sees fit.

Mayor J. N. Ragdale stated "it is my impression that the specific location was named in the ordinance authorizing issuance of the bonds and when the bond issue was voted no stipulation as to location was made to be erected was carried on the ballot."

City Attorney James L. Mayson said, "The city council has the authority at any place it sees fit and is not bound to locate it on any certain spot. The suit will not stand the court test," he stated.

Frank Neely, chairman of the Atlanta bond commission, centered his interest on plans for erection of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, and his only comment was that the bond commission had done its best to make the best trade for the city.

Councilman Wiley L. Moore, chairman of the special city hall committee of city council, was out of the city, and could not be reached for a statement. He will return Monday.

The consensus of opinion was that no injunction will be issued at the hearing set for September 10, and plans for constructing the building on the girls' old high-school site are expected to be prosecuted in the interim.

Mayor Ragdale approved the purchase of several additional strips of property to add to that already held by the city for the new municipal building, and details of completing the purchase were being pushed Thursday. Council authorized the new purchase at a special called session Wednesday afternoon.

Search To Be Pushed for Redfern

News reports, later contradicted, that Paul Redfern, daring Brunswick aviator, had landed at Alemquer, on the Amazon river, have caused searching parties to be organized that will hunt for him, not only in the jungles of the Amazon valley but vessels will also comb the Guiana coast. News that Redfern was seen by a ship in the Caribbean sea near Caracas has led to the belief that the intrepid flier reached South America and may have been forced to land in some inaccessible spot.

inform Edwin Morgan, the American ambassador.

The minister of communications has taken personal charge of the task of running down all clues tending to confirm or deny the report of Redfern's forced landing near Alemquer.

As soon as the authorities heard of the rumor, realizing that he may have met with an accident somewhere along the frontier of northern Brazil, urgent instructions were broadcast to all operators in the states of Amazonas and Para to be on the alert. There now are hundreds of government employees prepared to flash the news to Rio Janeiro.

A small vessel left Para City today to comb the coast up to the Guiana frontier.

A government official questioned by the Associated Press for an opinion of the Alemquer report declared:

"If he was forced down near Alemquer then he was far from the direct route along the Orinoco to Belém (Para). The Brazilian government also is searching the regions bordering on British Guiana along the Branco river and French Guiana along the Oyapock river.

"If he came down along the Branco river a long time would elapse before he reached Boa Vista or Maracachita or Ipanama, but even from these points only irregular river transport will get him back to the coast and civilization."

"We are searching for him also between the Oyapock and Jary rivers and the coast line north from the Amazon estuary."

"It is possible that Redfern was forced from his plotted route and came down somewhere between the Maicuru and Paru rivers, where there are three villages—Prainha, Erail and Ape— all without telegraph communication."

Further doubt on the Alemquer rumor was cast when the National Telegraph operator at Para wired that he had no news of the flier. This was in response to a report to the newspapers in Rio that the telegraph operator at Santarem had informed Para of the landing of an airplane near Alemquer.

GOVERNMENT SENDS URGENT CABLEGRAM

Washington, September 1.—(AP)—The state department today sent an urgent cablegram to the American consul at Para instructing him to make every effort to verify the report that Paul Redfern may have landed in the vicinity of Alemquer, Brazil, has been declared groundless by later advices. The consul previously had been instructed to use every available means to clear up the mystery of Redfern's whereabouts, but so far he has not reported to the department.

FATE OF REDFERN UNSOLVED MYSTERY

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, September 1.—(AP)—The whereabouts of Paul R. Redfern, the young Georgia aviator who disappeared since starting his solo flight from Brunswick to Brazil August 25, remains an unsolved mystery at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Up to that time no confirmation was received here of an earlier circumstantial report that Redfern had "fallen down" near Alemquer, state of Para.

The Brazilian government, to prevent the dissemination of misleading reports, has ordered all land, cable and radio stations not to give to the public the slightest news of the aviator until after flashing it to Rio Janeiro, so that the government may

CHICAGO SOLICITOR IN DRY CONSPIRACY

Chicago, September 1.—(AP)—A liquor conspiracy with Alfred H. Pouse, missing 37-year-old state's attorney, as its chief figure existed in McHenry county, George K. Q. Johnson, federal attorney, charged in a complaint submitted to a United States commissioner today.

Associated with Pouse in the alleged plot by which saloon and resort keepers claimed to have paid "protection fees" of $10 for each barrel of beer received, were F. Stellan, former postmaster of Woodstock, and Lester Edginger, former sheriff, warrants for the arrest of the three on charges of conspiracy and bribery were obtained.

The disappearance of Pouse yesterday and his declaration that "he was leaving for parts unknown" hurried federal action. Authorities here had intended presenting the claimed conspiracy, which Johnson says will involve more than 50 persons, to the September grand jury.

Pouse's flight from Woodstock was discovered yesterday when he failed to appear in county court to prosecute 40 persons arrested on bootlegging and gambling charges.

Three notes told of his intentions. Each said: "You will never see me again." They were addressed to his wife, Miss Mary O'Connor, his stenographer, and Floyd Eckert, of Woodstock, a friend. Pouse is thought to have gone to Canada.

BRITAIN TO PUNISH CHINESE PIRATES

London, September 1.—(AP)—The Evening News Shanghai correspondent states that a British naval punitive expedition, including the aircraft carrier Hermes, has been sent to Pina Bay to search for the pirates who looted the steamer Yatsing Tuesday.

HOSTAGES TAKEN BY PIRATES.

Hong Kong, September 1.—(AP)—The Indo China Steam Navigation company steamer Yatsing, bound from Swatow for Shanghai, was held up Tuesday by pirates, who looted the vessel and escaped to Pina Bay, with $10,000. Several Chinese passengers were taken as hostages. The Yatsing arrived here.

The Yatsing appears to be the same vessel described in a Westminster Gazette dispatch as having been the second steamer attacked by pirates in a short time. The other case was that of the China merchant passenger steamer Shinchi. This boat was taken into the pirates' lair, Pina Bay, but later was permitted to proceed to Fuchow.

The Westminster Gazette report said it was believed that in view of the new attacks on British and foreign shipping, the British naval authorities were preparing another raid against Pina Bay, to be more comprehensive than the first punitive expedition of last March.

Less Strikes and More Parleys Found Trend Of U. S. Labor Conditions

4,450 Walkouts and Lockouts in 1917 Compares to 1,035 in 1926, Figures Show.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, September 1.—(United News.)—Labor and capital are using the council table more and the strike less in adjusting their differences. Strikes are growing fewer every day. Once it was a dull season that did not see some bitter industrial upheaval with shooting, outrages on both sides, and possibly troops called out. Now such disturbance are rare.

One of the biggest strikes in numbers in many years today enters its sixth month—the bituminous coal strike. Yet most people outside of the districts affected probably are not aware of it going on. Ten states are affected and probably 200,000 men. Yet the bureau of mines reports that coal production is practically normal. Bituminous production was 9,000,000 tons last week and will be higher this week. Ten to eleven million tons is normal.

There has been practically no damage to industry, no public alarm, and little violence, the chamber of commerce reports.

Curve Downward.

In 1917 there were 4,450 strikes and lockouts. Last year there were 1,035. The curve is steadily downward.

"There is decidedly a better trend," said Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor. "More agreements are being reached by peaceful means. Employees have learned that there is no benefit to them in a strike or a lockout. Labor never wanted strikes. They were forced by employers who would not meet them in conference. We still have a few big industries that oppose it but the trend is favorable."

The department of labor, through its conciliation service, is dealing with 500 to 600 industrial disputes a year. Last year it handled cases directly affecting 308,000 men.

In 1916 more than 1,500,000 men were involved in strikes and lockouts. Last year slightly more than 300,000 men were involved. Because of the coal strike, the figures will be higher this year, of course.

Plane of Conflict.

"In practice, management and workers have demonstrated that the spirit and method of partnership is not only practical, but that it lifts the whole undertaking from a plane of conflict to a plane of creation," said William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor recently in conference with a labor conference to consider elimination of waste in industry.

Israel Mufson, secretary of that conference, struck labor's new keynote in these words: "Whether we like the machine age or not we cannot go back to the more simple days of the handicraft period, even were we so inclined. The trade unions fully recognize this fact and in order to utilize their influences most advantageously for the membership they should devote a great deal of their further perfection of industry so that life may become more abundant for all members of society."

Secretary of Labor Davis said in a speech this week: "When you cut the way to work a panic."

The Registration Department As Busy As a Beehive At the Southern Business College

A Large Enrollment Is Indicated For the Fall Term.

"I have visited every business school in Atlanta, and what I now see of the Southern Business College is more than any other," remarked a visitor Thursday, who enrolled a daughter for the September term.

And it was certainly a busy day with the registrars around at the Southern Business College yesterday—prospective patrons, from the city and from all parts of the country, enrolling for the fall term, many to begin Tuesday, September 12, and quite a number Monday, September 13.

In a letter received from two former pupils, Misses Agnes Cathy and Isabel Brooks, they write: "You say 'there is just one kind of currency that will buy a job and that is ability.' We agree, and realizing this fact, after finishing high school, we sought a business school—a university—that would give us just that training and ability with which we later purchased our positions. This training we found at our own SOUTHERN."

Up-to-date in everything, the Southern has just installed brand-new typewriting machines in its typewriting department, giving the school an equipment of 110 machines.

Investigate, examine, call on 25 or 30 or more of Atlanta's big firms, corporations, banks, and ask them to direct you to the leading business college. Then you'll not be disappointed after you enroll, if you follow the majority's advice.

The ability to work without supervision is pretty largely born of knowledge and self-confidence. The person who knows a thing superbly well has confidence in his own ability to do it and will generally proceed without waiting to be told.

FIRE PREVENTION MEET CLOSES TODAY

Waycross, Ga., September 1.—(Special.)—The first forest fire prevention conference and demonstration ever held east of the Mississippi river opened in Waycross Wednesday morning. The municipal auditorium building was crowded to overflowing. Between 500 and 1,000 timber owners were present.

B. M. Lufburrow, Georgia state forester, presided, and outlined the purpose of the conference. The address of welcome was made by Jerome Crawley, city attorney of Waycross, who stressed that throughout Georgia, despite its being so largely agricultural, there were thousands of acres unfit for agricultural purposes.

Such lands, he said, offered an annual profit to the owner who would adopt modern fire prevention and reforestation measures.

The opening address was by R. E. Benedict, of Brunswick, who outlined the theory of fire prevention. He discussed in detail inflammability of ignitions. Particular attention was paid to the need for incalculating in the general public such an accurate knowledge of the value of forests that would keep down fires started by carelessness and would make everyone a voluntary fire fighter. Captain I. F. Eldredge, of Fargo, took up the practical side of fire prevention and told of the actual means used in the 300,000 acres near Fargo. The primary lines or breaks consisted of furrows 100 feet apart. Between these furrows the land was burned by means of blow torches. The primary furrows followed as closely as possible the hills and the existing roads. The average cost of constructing a fire break was from $5 to $7 a mile, he said.

A. K. Sessions, of Cogdell, who is a member of the state forestry board, was the final speaker of the morning. He said that instead of using one furrow at the edge of the hundred foot wide breaks, seven or eight furrows were used. This gave a plowed space five to seven feet wide. This was then cleared and burned and it was hoped that it would be covered soon by a thick growth of carpet grass.

Mr. Sessions pointed out that if the stumps and dead timber were removed from the land it would be possible to keep these breaks running in a straight line, and he strongly recommended immediate stumping.

In addition to the primary and secondary breaks a large force of trained fire fighters, equipped with fire trucks, water and pumps should be kept on hand. It was idle to rely wholly on fire breaks to put out fires, he said.

Mr. Sessions brought out that the large fires this spring proved conclusively that the lands which had been protected and which had been with out fires suffered much less loss than the lands which had been burned annually.

The demonstrations began in the afternoon on the Maryland farms. The Ford Motor company had six outfits, the International Harvester company one, and the Yancey Motor company one.

A judge was assigned to each outfit, the judges being Captain I. F. Eldredge, of Fargo; R. E. Benedict, of Brunswick; Shirley Allen, of Washington, D. C.; Bonnell Stone, of Blairsville; W. B. Stovall, of Waycross; Jerome Crawley, of Waycross; Alex Sessions, of Cogdell, and Roland Turner, of Atlanta.

The outfits were to be judged for fire amount of work done, fuel and oil consumption, quality of work, initial investment, number of men required for operation, number of trips to complete the work, and ease of operation.

The demonstrations will continue Friday morning and the concluding business session will be held Friday afternoon.

SKELETONS FOUND SIDE BY SIDE IN MOBILE HOUSE

Mobile, Ala., September 1.—(P)—Two skeletons, thought to be those of a man and a woman, unearthed this afternoon by workmen, have set police and county authorities here searching for some identification marks that may lead to arrests.

The skeletons were discovered when, digging about 3 feet beneath the ground, the laborers came upon the bones lying close together. E. G. Bowman, construction foreman, immediately telephoned Sheriff Byrne for the sheriff's aid.

Duty Sheriff McFarland and Coroner Hale, conducted an investigation. According to Coroner Hale, the skeletons indicate that the bodies buried possibly three or four years ago, or more.

Clarkston Pair Remarries After 20-Year Divorce

Differences which 20 years ago brought a divorce and separated Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harper today have disappeared. Mrs. Emma Harper, 56, of Clarkston, was married Thursday night in the home of her cousin, Mrs. Pearl J. Abbott Jarvis, 65, residing on the Utio road.

Though they lived in the same community following the dissolution of the marriage bonds, Mr. and Mrs. Harper in all years that followed did not see one another until several months ago when Mr. Harper became a patient in Grady hospital following an injury.

Mrs. Harper heard of the accident. She had taken up nursing as her profession following the divorce, and she went to the hospital to administer to the needs of her former husband. There they became reconciled and when Mr. Harper recovered, he began calling on Mrs. Harper, re-enacting the courtship of decades ago.

When they planned to remarry, Mrs. Harper arranged to have the wedding in the home of her relative. Mr. and Mrs. Harper will again make their home in Clarkston, where they resided before the divorce.

Amorous Swain Loses Decisions To Margaret's

New York, September 1.—(United News.)—John Jarvis lost three straight decisions Thursday to woman named Margaret.

For 15 minutes his life was a flight from one Margaret to another, and each one gave him a sock on the jaw.

Finally Jarvis hid from all Margaret under his bed in his home, only to be dragged out by the police and arrested.

Mr. Jarvis, in a Jurgens mood, first entered the basement where Mrs. Margaret Klemund, 34, is a janitress and tried to hug her. She took a firm grip on his hair with one hand and clawed at his shirt with the other, screaming for the police.

Jarvis escaped and pounced into a basement two doors down the street, where Mrs. Margaret Klemund, 33, is a janitress.

"What do you want?" demanded this Margaret.

"I want you," said Jarvis, or Jürgen, as he called the attack unaware of her first name.

This Margaret gave Jarvis an ear that may be permanently cauliflowered if the police do not get him up.

A crowd was gathering and Jarvis fled, dodging into another doorway and plump into Mrs. Margaret Wagner, 22, a janitress, who was wrapped in a flowered silk umbrella with a jade handle around his head and jabbed him with the broken ribs.

At Jarvis' point, Jarvis went home and hid under the bed.

MEXICAN BANDITS ATTACK RAILROAD TRAIN; ONE DEAD

Nogales, Ariz., September 1.—(P)—A dispatch to the Nogales Herald today said one person was reported killed in an attack by bandits on a Southern Pacific of Mexico passenger train yesterday near Acaponeta, Nayarit.

The attack occurred less than a mile from the scene of the attack in which Miss Florence Anderson, Los Angeles school teacher, was fatally reinforced, the dispatch said.

Railroad officials here declined to comment and said that a 12-hour delay in the train's arrival here was due to the landings.

Other dispatches reported that bandits looted the Ahualulco station of the Mexican National railways near Guadalupe, on Monday. The station agent and several women were reported to have been taken prisoners.

$115,000 Bond Vote At Waycross To Be Consolidated Today

Waycross, Ga., September 1.—(P)—Waycross voters balloted today at a special municipal election on a proposal to issue $115,000 in bonds for improvements and additions to the city water-main, sewerage and drainage systems and waterworks. The outcome remained undetermined tonight, officials announcing that the vote would be consolidated tomorrow morning.

Ninety thousand dollars of the proposed issue would be used for work on water-main, sewerage and drainage, while the remainder would be devoted to the waterworks.

Northwest Demands All Candidates Back McNary-Haugen Bill

Washington, September 1.—(P)—The northwest will not endorse any candidate for the presidency unless he stands four square for the fundamental principles of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, declared today on his return to Washington.

"Any man who opposed farm relief in the last session of congress will never carry the northwest in a national election," he added. "Neither Coolidge nor Hoover would be acceptable but either Lowden and Norris would be."

FLOOD TOLL IS 180 IN SOUTHERN POLAND

Warsaw, Poland, September 1.—(P)—More than 180 persons have perished, as estimated by present reports, in the floods which have raged in southern Poland. Ten thousand persons are homeless and utterly destitute.

The town of Kutu has been destroyed and the fortress town of Przemyśl, of 47,000 inhabitants, is inundated. The fields near Drohobycz and Borslav are badly damaged.

The flood area extends for 150 miles from Przemyśl and Sambor in the north to the Rumanian frontier. Airplanes are being used for the most part in directing rescuers to the most distressed places, and there are many instances of heroic rescues of women and children by soldiers and students, some of whom lost their lives.

The heavy rainfall, which has been responsible for the floods, continues.

EFFORT TO DYNAMITE AQUEDUCT BLOCKED

Los Angeles, Cal., September 1.—(United News.)—An attempted dynamiting of the long Los Angeles aqueduct over which ranchers and the city have fought for years, was believed by police to have been thwarted today by the finding of a cache of explosives in an isolated cabin in Inyo county, through which the aqueduct passes.

The explosives included three boxes of 60 per cent nitroglycerin, 100 pounds of fulminate of mercury and 150 feet of fuse.

Ranchers, claiming their land has become practically arid because the water has been taken by Los Angeles, have dynamited the aqueduct several times.

Managua Bandits Are Surrendering To U. S. Marines

Managua, Nicaragua, September 1.—(P)—Followers of Carlos Salgado, who has been engaging in banditry for weeks, are said in reports reaching here today from Somoto to be slowly turning over their rifles to the American marines. Marine headquarters here has been advised that all is quiet in the department of Segovia, where Salgado has been operating.

General Moncada, the liberal leader, announced yesterday that he had word from Salgado that he would not give up his arms and call a halt to the fighting between the liberal and conservative factions was ended, to make sure that it is "equitable to the liberals. A commission headed by United States marines was sent to treat with Salgado several days ago. $10 for each rifle and 5 cents for each cartridge being offered to him.

General Sandino, who refused to fall in line with the other liberals in agreeing to the peace pact, was said to be quiet in the department of Ocot.

WOMAN FORGETS DIVORCE AS HER ALIMONY GRANTED

Cleveland, O., September 1.—(P)—Mrs. Helen Long Grasselli withdrew her request for a divorce from her millionaire husband, Edward Grasselli, today through her attorney, J. Paul Lamb, who indicated that she would be satisfied with separation and adequate alimony.

The request was made at a conference between Lamb and Grasselli's attorney, Homer H. McKeehan, with Common Pleas Judge Pearson today. Judge Pearson said that McKeehan offered no objection, but the two attorneys refused to comment.

Pearson said he would make a decision Tuesday.

TEXAS JURY READY FOR FLOGGING CASE

Tyler, Texas, September 1.—(P)—A jury was completed today for trial of Cain Anderson, wealthy farmer and dairyman, charged with taking part in the flogging of J. R. Richardson, 50, his wife, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Straps, on the night of June 8 last. The victims were tenants on Anderson's farm.

The defense indicated it would offer an alibi to refute the charges, which are based on the state anti-mask law enacted two years ago.

Judge J. P. Warren overruled a defense motion for continuance.

Sumter Board Member.

Americus, Ga., September 1.—(Special.)—John T. McWhin, who resigned recently as a member of the board of education of Sumter county, will be succeeded by C. A. Mercury Rise To 90 Degrees Likely Friday

The last vestige of Atlanta's pre-seasonal chilly spell will vanish today under a blazing sun, thinks Weatherman C. F. von Herrmann.

Mercuries and clear skies are in prospect both today and Saturday, the weather chief said, in doubling the scope of his customary 24-hour forecast.

While Thursday's temperature extended to comfortably between 67 and 88, today's high mark is expected to touch 90.

Warm air currents drawn over this vicinity toward a low pressure area in the Great Lakes region will bring the torrid spell to Atlanta, according to Mr. von Herrmann.

The early crop of felt hats and fall suitings seen on Peachtree street for the past few days is due for a setback, the meteorologist believes.

AVIATOR USES PLANE TO MOVE WIFE AND KIDS

Holdrege, Neb., September 1.—(P)—When Earl Barnes decided to move to Nashville, Tenn., his thoughts turned to the air, as he had been a pilot for several years.

Shipping his household effects by rail, Barnes and his wife and two children took off from here Tuesday morning for their new home. Ole Eckberg, completed the passenger list for the trip, which will be made in stages, in order not to keep the children aloft too long, Barnes said.

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE OUTDONE BY CHINA LOTUS

New York, September 1.—(United News.)—"Ivan's Chinese Lotus," another variation of the "Abie" theme, was enacted in the marriage license bureau of the Municipal building with a full cast.

Miss Sing Fay, 22 and Chinese, was the bride. Stefan Bandrowski, 43 and Russian, was the groom. Both are artists.

Jack Cohen, a Jewish interpreter, helped them get their license and an Italian clerk, Paul Paverno escorted them to the city chapel where Deputy City Clerk Joseph J. McCormick, guess what—tied them up for life.

NICE HUSBAND CHANGED NAME TO MR. GROGAN

Pittsburgh, September 1.—(P)—If nothing else, Alvin Francis Grogan wants to be an accommodating bridegroom. About to be married, Grogan's fiancée objected to his family name so he went into court today to have it changed to meet her wishes. When the marriage ceremony is performed they will become Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Francis Grogan, if the court approves.

FARMER DIES IN PULPIT AS HE READS BIBLE

Anderson, S. C., September 1.—(P)—Suffering a heart attack while he was reading from a Scripture during prayer meeting service, Clarence E. Harbin, 48, well-known farmer of the county, fell dead in the pulpit of the Midway Presbyterian church, some miles northeast of here, at 5:30 o'clock last night.

Mr. Harbin, who was conducting the meeting, hesitated in his reading of a Bible passage, and with the words, "Excuse me—my heart," crumpled to the floor of the rostrum. Physicians said he died instantly.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

STRAIN OF SACCO TRIAL CONFINES JUDGE TO BED

Worcester, Mass., September 1.—(P)—Judge Webster Thayer, of the superior court bench, is confined to his home here today, suffering from a severe cold and the nervous strain attending the closing days of the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

ROBBED, BLOWS HIMSELF TO BITS WITH DYNAMITE

Logan, W. Va., September 1.—(P)—Sitting himself upon a box of dynamite, Andy Andrews touched a match to the explosive and blew himself to bits tonight at the Braeholm mine of the Amherst Coal company.

The explosion wrecked four rooms of the mine clubhouse, where Andrews lived. His roommate, entering the mine, narrowly escaped death after a futile effort to prevent the suicide.

Despondent over the loss of $500, stolen from Andrews, while he slept, was believed the cause of his act.

FORMER FRIEND OF 'BUFFALO BILL' TAKEN BY DEATH

Sacramento, Cal., September 1.—(P)—W. F. Carver, 31, Indian scout, plainsman, civil war veteran, and associate of the late "Buffalo Bill" Cody, is dead here. For a long time Carver was recognized as the world's champion rifle and pistol shot.

Europe, Australia and the United States knew Carver for his feats with firearms. Carver and "Buffalo Bill" organized a "Wild West" show following the passing of the frontier days.

The body will be taken to Winslow, Ill., native town, by Carver's daughters, Honora and Lenora. They were with him at his death.

13 DEAD, 96 HURT WHEN HINDUS STAGE RIOT

Bareilly, British India, September 1.—(P)—Thirteen persons were killed and 96 injured in a communal riot during a Hindu festival here last night. A Hindu procession with bands passing before a Mohammedan mosque led to the fighting, which became so serious the police fired shots at the rioters. Strong reinforcements had to be called before the crowds were dispersed.

FORMER GEORGIA WOMAN BATTLES FOR 2 CHILDREN

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, September 1.—Mrs. Mary Ellis, a business woman of Tampa, where she has been most of the time since she separated from Charles Ellis, of Carrollton, Ga., petitioned the supreme court here today for a writ of habeas corpus to compel either her husband, or his brother, George Ellis, with whom the husband is in business here, to bring her daughters, Violet, 7 years old, and Florence, 5, into court so that she may regain their custody.

She declares that while she was away from home in Tampa defendant hid herself on a grounds and trumped-up charge, her children were spirited away from the house.

EDWARDS URGES SPECIAL SESSION

Washington, September 1.—(AP)—President Coolidge was urged today by Senator Edwards, Democrat of New Jersey, in a telegram to call an extra session of congress not later than November 1 to enact Mississippi flood relief legislation.

"Believing that I am expressing the consensus of intelligent New Jersey opinion concerning immediate and constructive Mississippi flood relief," said the telegram, "permit me to respectfully urge you to call the congress in extra session not later than November 1 in order that flood relief legislation may be drafted and acted upon at an early date as possible."

"With the Vire and Smith senatorial contests almost sure to consume many weeks of the senate's attention and with tax reduction, Boulder dam and other important legislation pressing for final definite action, I feel that the regular time allotted for the incoming session of the 70th congress will be too short in which to enact into law the above contemplated legislative program.

"If you think it inadvisable to call the congress into extra session my thought is that the senate could convene at an early date in October so that it might dispose of the Vire and Smith contests and be in a position to enact tax reduction legislation on or before March 15 of next year. I will sincerely appreciate your advising me of your reaction in the premises."

TEMBLOR IS FELT IN COLLIERY AREA AT LEEDS, ENGLAND

Leeds, England, September 1.—(AP)—The inhabitants of a 20-mile area in Yorkshire heard a deep rumbling at 9 o'clock last night. Inquiries at all the collieries in the district failed to locate an explosion, and it is thought the noise, which occurred again a few minutes later, was caused by a subterranean upheaval. No damage was reported.

BLUEBIRD STARTS TRIP TO AMERICA

night to essay the eastward flight today.

Bluebird Is Pioneer. Unless the St. Raphael is now on Canadian soil, having landed at some isolated spot probably far off its course, no airplane has succeeded in making the flight from Europe to North America. It means a flight against great odds that must be calculated carefully, and that even then are against airplanes at their present stage of development. Givon and Corbu were silent, but they must have thought of their countrymen, Nungesser and Goll, who but a few months ago hopped off under similar conditions to make the same flight.

There is hope that the St. Raphael may be reported; hope was abandoned weeks ago for Nungesser and Goll.

Believe They Will Win. Givon and Corbu believed this morning that they had calculated the odds against them, and that they would win.

Weather reports were favorable, or as favorable as they ever are for a westward flight.

From Le Bourget well out into the north Atlantic, there are light south-west winds, three-quarters of the way against a west-bound plane.

From the fifteenth parallel of longitude to the thirtieth, midway across the Atlantic, the wind is dead against them, according to reports here—tabulated from radio messages sent by ships in the area—but it is blowing only at about 10 miles an hour, less than usual.

Between Newfoundland and New York, where the aviators hope to pass Saturday morning, Le Bourget reports are that a northeast wind is likely to prevail, with good visibility.

They did not know here that reports from Newfoundland tonight showed heavy fog off the coast.

The aviators are taking the northern route, across the midlands in England, across the Irish sea, and across Ireland to its southwestern tip and out over the sea—where the St. Raphael preceded them at 7 a. m., eastern daylight time, Wednesday.

Announcement that a start would be made this morning came dramatically after generally credited reports Thursday afternoon that Givon, unsatisfied with the plane, had withdrawn.

The reports were circumstantial. It was said that the Farman company claimed a speed of 95 miles an hour for the plane, but that Givon found it could average only 85 miles; that its flying radius, supposed to be 55 hours, actually was only 45; that the plane could not, as claimed, be operated efficiently on one of its two motors alone.

The question of flying radius was most important, it was said. Allow for contrary winds one-third of the way, it had been estimated New York could be reached in 50 hours. If Givon's misgivings were true, it was pointed out, the plane could not reach New York even under conditions that were not unexpectedly unfavorable.

The reports even said that Givon's decision had been approved by brother aviators at Le Bourget.

But at 7:30 o'clock last night, Commandant Renvoise, in charge of the airport here, told the United States that there was a possibility the Bluebird would start before morning.

Renvoise began making the necessary preparations.

Shortly after midnight it was announced definitely that a start would be made at dawn.

Mechanics began rushing prepara-

Six daring aviators and an intrepid aviatrix now engaged in trans-Atlantic flights. The top picture shows the St. Raphael, English plane, which hopped off for Ottawa, Canada, with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, as a passenger. The center picture shows the Sir John Carling, which is now flying from London, Ontario, to London, England, under the guidance of Lt. James Medcalf, below at the left, and Captain Terry Tully at his right. The lower plane is the Royal Windsor, which hopped off Thursday from Windsor, Canada, for Windsor, England. Duke Schiller, pilot, is shown just above at the left and Philip S. Wood, navigator at his right.

The wings and motors of the plane were covered with oiled paper to protect against the damp night air. This was torn off just before the start.

Experts began testing the life-saving apparatus. Corned beef, sea biscuits and water were put aboard.

Later Givon arrived at the field to superintend preparations, and at 3 a. m. the plane was hauled from its hangar to be fueled.

Experts Await Outcome. Aviation experts, as well as relatives of the aviators and Frenchmen generally, who want them to carry the Triolator across the Atlantic on the first westward flight, are awaiting anxiously the result of their attempt.

Nungesser's failure and the turning back of the two powerful German trans-Atlantic planes a short time ago brought home to experts the odds against a successful flight from east to west.

At best, conditions are bad. The Bluebird for that Lindbergh and Byrd fought is there almost always—and the wind that carried Lindbergh and Byrd eastward is usually dead against strong.

Deep-sea pilots' charts show that throughout the year unfavorable winds are to be expected as normal on a western cruise.

Givon is a war ace, although even now only 32. In 1915, at 20, he brought down four German planes against a successful flight from east to west.

He wears the military medal awarded only for war exploits involving great gallantry—and has five additional decorations for exceptional bravery in battle. He has been recommended for the legion of honor for his war work.

Since the war Givon has been a civilian aviator. For two years he piloted a plane on the Toulouse-Casablanca, Africa, line. Recently he has been assigned to the Paris-Rotterdam, Holland, and Paris-Berlin routes. He has 3,500 flying hours to his credit.

Pierre Corbu is but 25. He learned to fly in the army, and served five years before entering the Farman service.

He is an experienced aviator, and flew 800 hours in 1923 alone.

His capability is attested to by his nickname—"The Homing Pigeon."

The Blue Bird rose from Le Bourget four minutes after it had started taxiing down the field.

It swung around into a circle, apparently in order to avoid the surrounding trees.

Its rise was slow, and when it went out of sight it was only a few hundred yards off the ground.

At 5:25 the aviators had entered the plane after kissing their wives and accepting letters from American delivery men.

Givon wore a blue uniform; Corbu had a blue cap and a yellow sweater over his other clothes.

Givon immediately encountered difficulty in manipulating the controls as he gave the plane its final inspection.

Mechanics rushed to correct the trouble. Givon's wife wept uncontrollably. The motors roared; flame spurted from the exhaust pipes.

Restraining blocks were pulled away. The plane started to roll down the field, the crowd cheering.

The Blue Bird rose from the ground, and 1,000 yards away from the starting point it left the ground. It turned back, circled over the field and struck out westward.

5 Points for

MOTORISTS about to tour on vacation—

1 Easy Riding

U. S. Royals are true balloon design. This means easy riding at proper pressure. Plenty of Rubber correctly placed has much to do with it.

2 Grip.....

Plenty of Rubber—of the right kind and under the right treatment—gives grip to treads instead of slip. You do not have to apologize for the performance of U. S. Royals.

3 Economy..

U. S. Royals are economical. They cost no more than ordinary good tires in the first place. They deliver full mileage. They give transportation without trouble.

4 Resiliency.

U. S. Royals may be compared with an athlete in prime condition. The famous sprayed rubber, used exclusively in U. S. Royal Cords, is like the athlete's muscle—full of spring and rebound.

5 Insurance.

Ordinarily, insurance demands a premium. Plenty of Rubber in U. S. Royals is a plus without penalty. Their use is insurance that your tires will be in commission whenever you call upon them.

under the roar of their motor, the men ate a hearty supper, dispatched a telegram to London, Ontario, telling of their safe arrival and eagerly sought their beds.

Strike Heavy Rains. Describing their trip during the meal hour the fliers said they struck heavy rains and thick fog only a few hundred miles from the start. As the St. Lawrence river, which they intended to follow out to the open ocean, was blanketed a great part of the time by dense fog, they swung southward, hoping to find clearer weather conditions and an open path to the sea.

Across the northern tip of this state they found fairer sailing, and after circling this town for bearings several times, they headed for Prince Edward island. Fog again thinned their way soon after they crossed the New Brunswick line, and having spotted a fair landing field here on their previous circling they decided to return and land.

They announced that with weather permitting tomorrow morning they would hop off again after a 6:30 o'clock breakfast.

The weather was cloudy here late tonight, but the stiff northeast headwinds through which the Carling plane had bucked most of the day had died down and the locally weatherwise predicted clearing conditions in the morning.

WEATHER REPORTS ASKED BY FLIERS. Harbor Grace, N. F., September 1.—(AP)—Word was received late tonight from Captain Terry Tully, pilot of the Canadian monoplane Sir John Carling, that the plane had landed at Carleton Place, Ont., after a flight from Newfoundland.

The English plane, St. Raphael, long overdue on its flight from Upavon, England, to Ottawa, had not been reported at a late hour.

At midnight, local time, 9:30 p. m., eastern standard time, virtually every man actively interested in the trans-Atlantic monoplane St. Raphael, dropped the ceaseless vigil which had begun at dawn.

ST. RAPHAEL REPORTED DOWN IN ATLANTIC. Ottawa, Ont., September 1.—(AP)—Government air force and radio officials were unable tonight to verify a widely circulated rumor that the monoplane St. Raphael, flying from Upavon, England, to Ottawa, had been forced down about 700 miles from here because of lack of fuel.

The rumor seemed to have no definite basis, but it caused a stir.

A checkup of radio stations brought only replies that there was no information about the plane.

OLD GLORY TO AID IN FLIERS SEARCH. New York, September 1.—(AP)—The Fokker monoplane Old Glory will leave Roosevelt Field early tomorrow morning bound for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to search for the missing British fliers of the crew of the St. Raphael, Philip Payne, Hearst representative, announced tonight.

PERMISSION GRANTED TO FLY OVER TURKEY. Constantinople, September 1.—(AP)—Official permission was received by the American aviators, Brock and Schlee, from the Turkish government late tonight to fly over Turkey. The Prime Minister of Turkey, Mustafa Kemal, is expected to leave for Baghdad at 5 a. m. tomorrow, weather permitting.

ALL HOPE ABANDONED FOR MISS MILDRED DORAN. Washington, September 1.—(United News.)—The navy has practically given up hope of finding Miss Mildred Doran and six others missing in the recent San Francisco to Hawaii flight. Its systematic search will be ended tonight, although several navy vessels on route from Honolulu to San Diego are following the probable course of the fliers in hope of finding trace of them.

Los Angeles, September 1.—(United News.)—William Busch, in his "Spirit of Boston," was some place between here and San Bernardino tonight, en route to New York on a cross-country run.

Busch with the banner, "Spirit of Boston," across his running shirt, was started from the city hall here by Acting Mayor Bonelli.

Two Airplanes ARE FORCED DOWN (Continued From First Page.)

passed Montreal. They then ran a severe storm and fog and were forced down.

It was understood that they intended to hop off the first thing in the morning for Newfoundland.

SIR JOHN CARLING IS DOWN IN MAINE. Carleton Place, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The monoplane Sir John Carling, attempting a flight from London, Ont., to Carleton Place, landed about 6 o'clock, eastern standard time, tonight in an open field in the township of Washburn, six miles from here. Foggy conditions forced the fliers southward from their course to Newfoundland and compelled them to interrupt their flight.

The plane first appeared over this town about 1:30 p. m., flying very low and circling as if in an effort to gain bearings and identify the town. It then headed off in a northeasterly direction toward the New Brunswick line.

Farmer Gives News. The next report came from Washburn when a farmer telephoned in that the plane had landed there. The pilots, Captain Terry Tully and Lieutenant James Metcalf, left the plane in the field where they landed for the night and came into this town, going immediately to the Vaughan house.

The Sir John Carling made a perfect landing in a field on the farm of Henry Mitten. After a careful examination which showed the fliers' ship was undamaged, in its descent the aviators accepted an automobile ride into town here.

"Dead tired," as they described it, and hardly able to hear after hours

Dakota Offers 160 Acre Farm To President

Nisland, S. D., September 1.—(AP)—Coming into this irrigated farming country, President Coolidge was offered a 160-acre farm today for his use when he leaves the white house. He smilingly responded that through the generosity of the Black Hills people he has received enough presents to become a full-fledged farmer of South Dakota.

After making an impromptu speech at Nisland, S. D., where he inspected the Belle Fourche irrigation project, Mr. Coolidge came to Nisland to attend the Butte county fair and accept a gift of two fine sheep with a small informal talk.

He also took occasion to express the gratitude of himself and Mrs. Coolidge for their pleasant stay in the Black Hills and remarked that they would take back to Washington with them a memory of a very pleasant summer.

Dinner-Dances
At Social Clubs
Are Popular Events

With the prolonging of warm days at fresco dining and dancing continue as a popular form of entertainment. Since Thursday evening is known throughout the south as "Cock's night off," society has dined each Thursday evening during the summer season on the alluring terraces and roof gardens of Atlanta's social clubs.

Several large dinner parties featured the dinner-dance last evening at the Capital City club with a number of the younger social contingent staying on the roof of this popular club for a late supper and dancing, following a motor drive or theater performance. Among the congenial parties given at the Capital City club Thursday was that at which Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lewis entertained, their guests including Mrs. Haynes McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Cator Woodford, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Wells and Henry Heinz, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. LeRoux, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Allen, Mrs. William H. Barnwell and C. A. Pollock, of Vienna, Austria. Dr. and Mrs. Guy Ayer and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. White dined together. Walter Hill had as his guests Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Brooke, Mrs. W. D. Darden, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Whipple, of New York, and C. A. Roach, of New York.

Among those who entertained at the Piedmont Driving club Thursday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacDonal, who were hosts to eight close friends.

A delightful home-like atmosphere prevailed at the Druid Hills Golf club, where many family parties assembled for dinner. Among those who entertained family groups were Mr. and Mrs. George Westmoreland, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Van Valkenburg, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Snow, and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. McKeown. G. W. Grant, West 0723-J, and Mrs. F. H. Jackson, West 1061. Visitors will take the Cascade Heights bus at the end of the car line without extra charge.

Miss Holt To Wed Horace Lynwood Smith.

The wedding of Miss Mildred Holt to Horace Lynwood Smith will be solemnized at the College Park Methodist church Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Thelma Holt, sister of the bride, will be matron of honor and Robert F. Brownlee will be best man.

Miss Strickland's
Guests To Be Honored
At Party Series

Miss Sarah Strickland is entertaining at a delightful house party at her home on Clairmont avenue, Decatur, the guests having arrived Thursday. Miss Strickland's guests include Miss Henrietta Nolan, of Miami; Miss Lucile Woodbury, of Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Jane Green, of Miami; Miss Thelma Williamson, of Atlanta, and Sam Ferguson, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Strickland will be hostess at a lovely al fresco party Friday evening at her home, inviting fifty members of the younger social set of Atlanta and Decatur to meet her guests.

Sam Ferguson, a member of the house party, was host at a theater party at the Georgia Thursday evening, honoring this attractive group of belles.

Monday afternoon, September 5, Miss Martha Johnson will entertain at a bridge-ten at her home in Decatur, honoring Miss Strickland and her guests.

Miss Rosalyn Moncrief will be hostess at a theater party Tuesday afternoon, September 6.

On the same date Miss Polly Jones will entertain at an evening bridge party at her home on Clairmont avenue.

The party chaperoned by Mrs. B. R. Beck, aunt of the hostess, will motor to Warm Springs Wednesday, September 7, where they will be entertained by G. E. Strickland, father of the young hostess.

A number of other parties have been planned for the coming week, young visitors, the dates to be announced later.

Miss Floye Eskridge
Weds John J. Ward
At Noon Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Floye Eskridge and John James Ward was a quiet event of Monday noon at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Eskridge, on Lucile avenue, the Rev. Father Conlin officiating. The service was read before an improvised altar of palms and cathedral candelabra. Mrs. Fuzzy Woodruff presided at the piano.

The bride, attended by her sisters, Mrs. Frank Eskridge, who wore a black Elizabeth crepe, and Mrs. Herbert Peeler, in a rosewood crepe, and they wore shoulder bouquets of pink roses.

The bride entered with her brother, Dr. Frank Eskridge, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Herbert Peeler. The bride was radiantly beautiful in an imported gown of ciel blue crepe, trimmed in rose point lace and silver ribbon and a close-fitting hat of silver metal cloth. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward left for Washington, New York and other points in the east. After September 15 they will be at home in Chicago, where Mr. Ward holds a responsible position with the Western Union company.

Miss Juanita Danbury

Bite yourself an Alphabet

Isn't it better to be a Pretzeleer?

"Mama, see the funny man. What's he in there for?"
 "Why Willie, he is a cu-ri-os-ity."
 "Mama, what's a cu-ri-os-ity?"
 "A cu-ri-os-ity, Willie, is a person who doesn't like pretzels."

And breaking out a paper bag of O-So-Guds mama began to bite and Willie to nibble and soon they had spelled for the man.

O-SO-GUD

That's an eating word if there ever was one, for it's the name of those crispy, crunchy, salty, twisty Uneeda Bakers' pretzels that everyone but a cu-ri-os-ity likes so well.

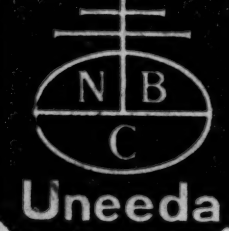

They're good with cool iced drinks. With soup, with salad, with dessert. They're good on picnics and between meals and at parties. They're good for children. Easy to digest.

Uneeda Bakers bake them. Grocers in every neighborhood sell them.

O-SO-GUD PRETZELS

O-So-Guds are brown, crisp and salty. They bite with a nice crackle, and they have a taste that's like nothing in the world but an O-So-Gud pretzel. Sold by the pound.

Miss Moore Weds Mr. Mann At Lovely Church Ceremony

Of cordial interest throughout the state is the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Beulah Moore and Hunter Merrill Mann which was solemnized Thursday evening at St. John Methodist church. Rev. R. A. Edmondson performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. An appropriate musical program was rendered preceding the ceremony by Miss Emilie Parmelee. Mrs. Hugh Wilkins, aunt of the groom, sang "At Dawning" and Charles Perry, cousin of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." The altar was banked with palms. Tall baskets of flowers and candles alternated among the pews. The reserved pews were marked with bouquets of garden flowers. The bridesmaids were Miss Edith Jo Mann, the groom's sister, who wore green taffeta combined with orchid taffeta and tulle made bouffant, and Miss Ora Dozier, wearing blue taffeta and tulle over pink satin, with bouffant skirt. They wore silver slippers and carried arm bouquets of garden flowers. The groomsmen were Howard Moore, cousin of the groom, and Albert Stansell. The little flower girls were Miss Rose Jordan, the groom's sister, wearing blue georgette and Miss Barbara McCann, cousin of the bride, wearing pink georgette. They carried baskets of rose petals. Miss Ethel Moore was her sister's maid, and entered alone, wearing a frock of sunburst taffeta. She wore silver slippers and carried an arm bouquet of roses showered with silver ribbon rosebuds.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, John Albert Mann, who was best man. Her bridal gown was an Irene Castle model of imported white chiffon with long bodice, and full accordion-pleated skirt. Her lace veil was arranged can-shape to her head, and was caught at the sides with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a wrist watch, gift of the groom.

After the wedding a reception was

To Make Your Home a Place of Joy and Harmony

There are some houses you visit where you feel instantly at home. There is an air of comfort and cheer about them. They are not necessarily rich and elaborate. They may be simple and even shabby. But there are comfortable old chairs for you to sink into—and it doesn't matter if you spill ashes on the floor. And the folks who live there are always glad to see you. They welcome you with their own cheery graciousness—and no matter when you drop in, they always offer you a welcome cup of RIDGWAYS deliciously fragrant tea to cheer and refresh you.

No wonder you feel at home there! No wonder being there always puts you in a mood of good-fellowship and genial camaraderie! RIDGWAYS TEA does that for you. It warms you so that you feel relaxed and at harmony with yourself. It invigorates you so that you feel friendly and in harmony with others.

To make your home a place of joy and harmony, begin by putting your guests and your family, too, in a happy frame of mind by refreshing them with the always welcome cup of RIDGWAYS fragrant, full-bodied tea.

SYNOPSIS

On the way to Donald Briery's house for luncheon Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friend Olive Watson that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father.

Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald, but she is not at all sure of his good fortune in inheriting the Harrowby estate. She is crooked and plot to cheat Donald Briery of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Briery, Donald's father, presumed to have died when the Titanic sank, calls on Sandle. Querk suggests to Sandle that he invite Briery to Harrowby house and there, with the assistance of Querk's clerk, Wade, dispose of Briery.

Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is not, however, the key and lets her in to wait for her. She leaves strange notes in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Mr. Sandle and another man kill Mr. Briery, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story Querk pushes the bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and, calling him, the three proceed to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the men place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanied her to the police station where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and in exasperation Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Querk requests Sandle to come to the superintendent's office and he presents an alibi which the police officer accepts. The lawyers proceed to Wade's office, where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heir, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

INSTALLMENT XVII.
QUERK HAD A PLAN.
Sandle waited for Querk to continue.

"Let us leave the old man for a moment and wait until the trend of our own thoughts leads us back to that pitiable figure," began Querk. "It is my painful duty to awaken you from your false security and very carefully consider the precise degree of peril in which you stand."

"Go on," said Sandle weakly. "I didn't mean to imply that you had murdered—you know that. What were you going to say about—about me?"

"I was about to say this," said Querk, placing one hand almost tenderly upon Sandle's knee. "There is one cardinal difficulty which every—ah—murderer encounters, my dear Sandle, and that is the difficulty of disposing of the body—in this case Briery's body."

Sandle glanced fearfully towards the door and his eyes entreated Querk to speak more obscurely.

"I told you, Querk," Wade took it away. "It is in that lockup in his yard. I thought you realized that."

"A little imagination, my dear Sandle, a little imagination," urged Querk. "In the nature of things, it cannot long remain there."

"Then you won't leave it to Wade?" begged Sandle. "You'll give him orders?"

"I never give orders," said Querk. "No man, as I think Lassalle remarked, is good enough to be another man's master. I would not presume in any case to dictate to you. And Wade in such a matter. The risk is yours; the decision must be yours. But if you—jointly—care to take my advice, I shall be most happy to place it at your disposal. To begin with, prepare yourself for an extremely busy night."

"Yes, yes. Tonight," muttered Sandle. "But take the body up the river and drop it quietly in the Thames. The road runs by the river for miles between Staines and Windsor."

"Ah. This is no doubt the beginning of some brilliant plan which has eluded me," said Querk with heavy irony. "But at this moment I am completely in the dark as to what would happen when Briery's body is found, as it inevitably would be?"

"We would remove the body, there would be nothing—no clue—"

Querk appeared to be giving serious consideration.

"Just consider it from another angle," he insisted. "I have succeeded in convincing the police that Miss Constance Elmore is the victim of an hallucination. She has told a wild and superficially improbable tale of murder. We have carefully, if I may say so, induced the illusion of improbability. The police will, if left to themselves, take no further steps in the matter. On the other hand, let us suppose that a body is found murdered and there is nothing to account for it. The girl immediately recognizes the corpse. At once her fantastic tale is shown of its improbability. The improbable has become the actual. . . . Try again, Sandle."

"Don't play with me, Querk," entreated Sandle. "I can't try again. I'm at my wit's end. What are we to do with Briery's body?"

"That is a secondary problem, as I see it," answered Querk. "Fire is impracticable without an expensive plant which you do not possess. You must place your corpse, then, in earth or water. On the whole, it matters very little which you choose. It will be discovered in either case. My original plan had been the river Thames. But everything has been changed by the intervention of blind chance in the person of Miss Elmore. In a word, as soon as the body of our late friend Briery is found, Miss Elmore receives profuse apologies from the superintendent. The subject opens up an interesting field of—ah—speculation.

The student of criminology—

"Querk, I am not a student of criminology. I am a man going in fear of death as a result of taking your advice."

"Tut-tut, I hate to mention it, Sandle, but really, this habit of interruption. But there, no apology. I beg! I was saying that as a student of criminology I am driven to the conclusion that it is quite unsafe for you to allow the body of Augustus Briery to be discovered in any circumstances whatsoever."

"But you said it was bound to be discovered."

"I said the body was bound to be discovered. I did not say that the body of Augustus Briery was bound to be discovered."

"There was a silence. Querk was waiting. Already he had decided what was to be done with the body. But his plan required the active cooperation of Sandle. And Sandle, he could see, was not quite ready. He would play Sandle like a fish, pull him, trick him, push him into the right frame of mind."

"I see," said Sandle, slowly. "You mean we must make it the body of some one else. But who—?"

"Ah! Who—what? That is indeed the question. The police come upon a murder. Of whom—by whom? By whom of whom? Answer those two questions for them, my dear Sandle, and your little trouble becomes as once a fleeting nightmare of the past."

"But how can I possibly do that?" Sandle entreated him. "Find a man who might have murdered another man and make that other man—"

"Tut-tut. Be careful or you will make my head spin!" interrupted Querk. "That is the worst of you, Sandle. You defeat yourself by your own subtlety. To work out some solution of your problem on the lines you suggest would be so comically difficult as to be impossible. Now the problem as I see it is a comparatively simple one."

"Simple?" gasped Sandle.

"As remarked just now," continued Querk, "and in a humorous way a student of criminology. That science has taught me that men tend to commit crime from hope of gain or fear of death. Ask yourself this question: 'Who, of all my acquaintances, at this moment is entertaining the hope of a very considerable gain?'"

"Donald Briery. But how on earth—"

"No, no, no, no, no, no," said Querk. "Remember what I said about you clever men. In a fairly active life, Sandle, I have proved over and over again the truth of the old adage—'more haste, less speed.' Let us pause in contemplation of that very interesting and well-managed young man, Donald Briery. Now Donald Briery, if I am right, is now a man of high hopes, extremely well-founded, of stepping into a very large fortune. There is, however, one man—and an old man at that—who, by the mere act of breathing, can rob him of that fortune. Now see if you can tell me who that old man is?"

"Am I a school child repeating a lesson?" Henry Turle, of course.

"Very good, indeed, Henry Turle, of course," said Querk. "Now suppose this old and infirm man, Turle, were to come to your young friend's house one night, after his servants had gone to bed and announce his identity? If I am right in my facts—correct me if I am wrong—the cruel hand of fate would then put a terrible temptation upon your young friend. It would say, 'You have only to strike down this infirm old man, a million is yours.'"

"He's not that kind," said Sandle. "He wouldn't strike down a fly for a million."

"Continued Tomorrow.

$10,010,000.

New York, September 1.—(P)—The bond market today was somewhat more active than recent sessions, a number of issues attracting heavy trading at improving prices. There were a few wide advances, and declines, which were limited to fractions, were not numerous. Several of the higher grade bonds displayed improving demand, possibly in reflection of heavy dividend payments due in the present month.

Of note among the issues were

France continued to interest bond men, and French issues, of all classes, moved up in a spirited fashion. Government bonds, and 7-1/2 per cent

national Steamship, Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean, St. Seine and Soissons is all sold at record high prices.

Other foreign bonds were relatively inactive.

Railway mortgages were led by Erie refunding $5,000,000 within a fraction of their record high. Chesapeake Corporation $5,000,000 was in strong demand around 95-3/4, convertible bonds displayed strong tendencies

under the leadership of Erie "D", which accompanied the stock upward, advancing nearly 3 points. Erie Consolidated bonds jumped more than 1 to a new peak of 83-3/4 on a single sale.

Aside from buoyancy of International Telephone Debenture 4-1/2,

Public Utility mortgages showed only nominal activity. White Sewing Machine, on the sale of one bond, advanced 1/4 point.

Considerable buying developed in most of the federal government liberty bonds. The fourth liberty, which was the outstanding liberty, while treasury 3-3/8 also featured by rising slightly to 101-1/8, the price at which they have ever sold.
